Paul Spindler is Lead partner of our Private Client Services sector, partner on the Latin America desk and tax partner for our technology sector.

Business taxation is where Paul has cut his teeth in taxation planning for the last 12 years, dealing with tax issues from structuring start ups, tax efficient rewards, incentivising management, corporate reorganisations, cross border trade and sale of companies and their businesses.

Paul's specialist areas are:

Private Client Services, Kingston Smith's holistic approach to dealing with the business and personal tax affairs of our clients is the ethos of our work, understanding people's rationale to their financial affairs and assisting in the decision making process by giving best advice at the right time.

Paul set up the Latin American desk at Kingston Smith in September 2009, working closely with the British and Colombian Chamber of Commerce, this offers our clients a fantastic opportunity for those wishing to trade with or within Latin America.

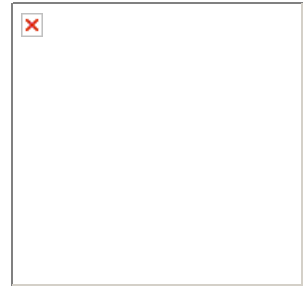

Paul has many years experience working with technology companies and dealing with their tax issues, particularly the enterprise incentives and tax credits for Research and Development. Paul is a regular contributor for www.contractoruk.com.
