Brian Pope joined Kingston Smith in July 2008 and has over 20 years' experience as a partner in public practice with top ten firms.

His client experience is spread across many business sectors including leisure, manufacturing, motor, professional firms, property and technology. The common theme is a focus on entrepreneurial owner managed businesses together with the unique challenges and opportunities that they face. In addition to advising on audit and accountancy issues Brian gives general business and corporate finance advice where required. Brian likes to work with clients that aspire to grow and he has worked with start ups through to groups with turnovers of up to £400million. He also works with a number of clients in the not for profit sector.
