Cliff Ireton qualified as a chartered accountant in 1976 and with the Institute of Taxation in 1979. He was appointed partner in 1985 in a specialist entertainment firm before joining Kingston Smith in May 1995.

Cliff is a partner in our West End office with over 25 years experience in the Arts, Entertainment and Media sectors. He specialises in the marketing services industry, especially media buyers and direct marketing companies, theatre, film, television as well as arts and media charities and trade associations and has an extensive portfolio of commercial clients.

He provides specialist business, financial and taxation services to these sectors including business valuations, contract reviews, strategic advice and the acquisition and disposals of companies as well as audit and taxation compliance. He is currently trustee of several charities.
