Getting the right advice

The world of sport is changing rapidly, with digital technology and global communications having a major impact for the sector. In addition, the increasing awareness of image rights within sport is creating new challenges for sports professionals and commercial organisations alike. Anticipating and accommodating these changes, however, need not be undertaken alone. Specialist knowledge and getting the right practical advice can help provide the key to success.

About Kingston Smith's sports team

Our sports sector team have an in-depth understanding of the sports sector. In fact we regularly write articles in 'Stadium' and 'Golfing club Management' magazines. We have helped many sports clubs and professionals and this experience means you receive positive and practical advice, based on a thorough understanding of your sport. By offering a 'one stop' complete tax and accountancy solution for all sports clubs and professionals, we can give you confidence that your commercial interests are being successfully managed.

As a founding member of KS International, an association of independent accountancy firms in some 56 countries around the world, we are well placed to meet your international business needs.
